Are you interested in global climate policy and negotiations? Do you want to gain in-depth exposure to the issues, as well as hands-on experience with global climate diplomacy?

The U.N. Climate Change Negotiations Practicum, a Bass Connections course, provides Duke students with an opportunity to become experts in climate change negotiations and to attend the upcoming COP24 negotiating session in Poland.

Applications for the Fall 2018 course are now open!

WHO
Graduate and upper-level undergraduate students in any department at Duke

WHAT
A practicum course on the history and current issues of the U.N. climate negotiations, including guest lectures, client-based projects, student-led presentations, and attendance at the COP24 negotiating session in Poland

WHEN
Mondays from 1:00-3:00 p.m. / COP24 December 3-14, 2018, in Katowice, Poland

Applications due Wednesday, August 15th at 5:00 p.m.
Apply at sites.duke.edu/duketotheunfccc/apply
For more information visit sites.duke.edu/duketotheunfccc