As an energy analyst, Patrick Reaves helps FACEBOOK increase its renewable energy use while keeping costs down. That means he can affect the energy footprint of more than one billion people worldwide who use the social networking giant.

Hoping to be “a catalyst for change,” he wanted to learn about energy while developing business skills. He chose the joint degree program at the NICHOLAS SCHOOL OF THE ENVIRONMENT AT DUKE.

FIND OUT MORE

© Phil Shermeister photo